

By Ald Carolyn Markham

lege and continues to Monday lunchtime. Well worth a look.

FRIDAY. SURFING STATUARY: Town Clerk Robert Ball and I met the executive director of the Bicentennial Authority, Peter Arnold, and his deputy Ed Maunsell at the foundry where the surf lifesaving statue is being cast. This statue, which is a bi-centennial project, and will be erected close to The Pavilion, is a tribute to the birth of lifesaving in the municipality. Diana Webber, the sculptor, has done a magnificent job capturing the determination and majestic bearing of the lifesaver. John Webber was on hand to advise of the pouring and casting process. Residents will be proud of this monument.